PREPARATION INSTRUCTIONS FOR CAT SCAN APPOINTMENTS

- You may continue to have fluids.
- Please take any medications as prescribed, regardless of appointment time.
- If your appointment is between 8:00 AM and 4:00 PM then you will most likely be receiving intravenous x-ray dye. This material is used to obtain additional information from the CT scan. If you have a history of allergies, especially to contrast media, then you should notify your attending physician for pre-medication and mention this to the technologist prior to injection.
- If you are diabetic and will be receiving intravenous x-ray dye, we need a creatinine blood test result that is not older than 2 months.
- If you are diabetic, taking Metformin or Glucophage and will be receiving intravenous x-ray dye, consult your attending physician as it should be withheld 48 hours after the examination.

CT Head or Chest

- Nothing to eat 2 hours before the examination. Jewelry, hairpins, bobby pins should be removed before the study.

CT Abdomen

- Nothing to eat 2 hours before the examination. Jewelry, hairpins, bobby pins should be removed prior to the study.

CT Pelvis and/or CT abdomen with pelvis.

- Please pick up a bottle of oral contrast (READI-CAT) from our Diagnostic Imaging department prior to your appointment (not the day of the appointment).
- If your appointment is before 11:30 AM, then the night before the exam, please drink the entire bottle of READI-CAT at bedtime. Do not eat for 2 hours prior to the exam.
- If your appointment is after 11:30 AM, then have a small breakfast and drink the entire bottle of READI-CAT 4 hours before the test.

CT Renal pelvis protocol – No preparation necessary.

Please follow the instructions above that correspond to the type of CT scan you are having. Should you have further questions or concerns, please call the bookings office telephone number listed above.
